Course Description

The purpose of this course is to examine in some detail the most common residential setting in the United States: the suburb. As many scholars argue, to subsume suburbs under some presumed more interesting, important, and central “city” is problematic if suburbs represent the most prevalent form of American residence. Recognizing and building upon understandings of American cities, this course examines the history, contemporary life and politics of American metropolitan areas, focusing on suburbs but not losing sight of the broader metropolitan—and urban—context. Students in this course will review histories of US suburbs in order to understand not simply their origins but also the debates about the forces driving suburbanization in America. We will examine twentieth-century accounts of suburban life, taking into account differences by gender, race, and ethnicity. Finally, we will examine the politics of suburbs: from governance to contemporary culture and questions of environmental sustainability.

Objectives

Students successfully completing Suburbanization: People, Place, and Politics will be able to do three things: (1) outline the historical development of suburbia in the United States and explain the role of government policy and American culture in this process; (2) connect the historical development of suburbs to contemporary conditions, illustrating both recurring patterns as well as points of divergence; and (3) articulate an informed argument about what the future of suburbia may look like.
Course Philosophy

The most important outcome of this course is the learning that students achieve. The course is designed as an introduction to the theories of suburbanization for upper-level undergraduate students. The course is scaled to learning at two levels, and writing and discussion are the primary method by which students will communicate their learning within these levels. At its basic level, the course introduces students to foundational and factual knowledge about suburbs (e.g., historical development). At a more advanced level, it asks students to think conceptually about the role suburbs have played in the American imagination, both as a utopian ideal and a problematic reality. The course challenges students to recognize how the suburbs have been shaped by the choices people make about where they live and work, but that suburbia itself has also shaped those choices. The course requires that students comprehend how the foundational knowledge and theoretical frameworks interrelate to form a useful body of knowledge.

Course Texts

There are three required books for this course, and additional required readings are available on the course OAKS site, sorted by class session.

The following required books are available in the campus bookstore:

Assignments & Evaluation

Short Paper #1 — What do you understand to be the historical purpose of the American suburb? What roles have private and public policy played in the historical development of the suburbs? This question asks you to synthesize the opening readings and distill an argument about the purpose of suburbs. In this argument, it is expected that you will consider how the policies of private industry and government, morality, culture, and the human desire for meaning have shaped the suburb. Your answer should not be more than seven pages. Short paper #1 counts towards 20% of your grade. You will be evaluated on organization, grammar, spelling, and presentation (e.g., appropriate margins, spacing, and fonts) in addition to appropriately and coherently addressing the assignment. See Rubric #1: “Evaluating short paper #1” for the specific guidelines that I will use to evaluate your work.

NOTE: Short paper #1 is due on 21 September on dropbox by midnight. There are no exceptions. If you fail to turn in your short paper #1 on 21 September on dropbox, you will lose 6 points (out of 100) for each day late.

Short Paper #2 — Is suburbia diverse? If it is, explain whether or not this diversity is problematic and how it came about. If it’s not, explain why you think that’s the case. This question is asking you to build on your previous review of the history of suburbia, explaining whether or not you see contemporary suburbia as diverse and connected to past trends. You must argue whether you see fundamental connections between diversity as a suburban characteristic (or the lack thereof) and the history of suburbs—that is, how has history shaped the present, or hasn’t it? If you don’t see any connections, why do you think that’s the case? It is expected that you will also argue a position regarding whether or not diversity in suburbia is ‘good’ or ‘bad.’ Your answer should not be more than seven pages. Short paper #2 counts towards 20% of your grade. See Rubric #2: “Evaluating short paper #2” for the specific guidelines that I will use to evaluate your work.

NOTE: Short paper #2 is due on 19 October on dropbox by midnight. There are no exceptions. If you fail to turn in your short paper #2 on 19 October on dropbox by midnight, you will lose 6 points (out of 100) for each day late.

Short Paper #3 — Is there a future for the American suburb? What does it look like, if yes and why? If you think that there is no future for the suburb—in effect an argument that everyone will live and work in the city—what reasons do you offer for that conclusion? This question is asking you to articulate an informed vision for the future of suburbia based in the literature we have read and your own interpretations and synthesis of that literature. Your answer should not be more than seven pages. Short paper #3 counts towards 20% of your grade. See Rubric #3: “Evaluating short paper #3” for the specific guidelines that I will use to evaluate your work.

NOTE: Short paper #3 is due on 7 December on dropbox by midnight. There are no exceptions. If you fail to turn in your short paper #3 on 7 December on dropbox by midnight, you will lose 6 points (out of 100) for each day late.

Concept / Media presentations and discussion — To connect course material with the world beyond the classroom, another component of the course is finding and discussing news or other real-world items that illustrate concepts, ideas, or issues from the assigned reading. Each class session, one student will be asked to define a concept from the reading, find a media source that illustrates that concept, and explain the concept to the class and how the media piece illustrates it. You are required to submit a short, one paragraph definition of the concept and one paragraph explanation for how the media source illustrates the concept. This should be submitted to me via email (send to KeenanK@cofc.edu) by noon the day before your presentation. You are also required to generate two to three discussion questions based both on your media source and concept, but also on the other content assigned for that day. Include these discussion questions on page 2 of your emailed document. We will address your questions in class.

The concept / media presentations count towards 20% of your grade. See Rubric #4: “Evaluating Concept and Media Presentations” for the specific guidelines that I will use to evaluate your work.

SPECIAL NOTE: Failure to conduct your presentation on the date scheduled will result in a zero for that presentation. No make-ups will be issued.
In-class participation – The in-class participation grade will be determined by your attendance at each class, your engagement during the class discussions, and your responses to questions and other students’ comments. Sleeping or putting one’s head down during the course will adversely affect the grade. Lateness—both at the beginning of the course and after the break—as well as early departures, will adversely affect the grade. The participation grade will also be determined by your willingness to speak up and share thoughts, questions, and concerns during the course. In class participation counts as 20% of your grade. See Rubric #5: “Evaluating Students’ In-class participation” for the specific guidelines that I will use to evaluate your participation.

Your final grade for the course will be calculated using the following undergraduate grade distribution (percentage of total score of all assignments).

General Policies and Procedures

- Statement on Academic Integrity: Lying, cheating, attempted cheating, and plagiarism are violations of our Honor Code that, when suspected, are investigated. Each incident will be examined to determine the degree of deception involved.

  Incidents where the instructor determines the student’s actions are related more to a misunderstanding will be handled by the instructor. A written intervention designed to help prevent the student from repeating the error will be given to the student. The intervention, submitted by form and signed both by the instructor and the student, will be forwarded to the Dean of Students and placed in the student’s file.

  Cases of suspected academic dishonesty will be reported directly by the instructor and/or others having knowledge of the incident to the Dean of Students. A student found responsible by the Honor Board for academic dishonesty will receive a XXF in the course, indicating failure of the course due to academic dishonesty. This status indicator will appear on the student’s transcript for two years after which the student may petition for the XX to be expunged. The F is permanent.

  Students should be aware that unauthorized collaboration--working together without permission-- is a form of cheating. Research conducted and/or papers written for other classes cannot be used in whole or in part for any assignment in this class without obtaining prior permission from the instructor.

  Students can find the complete Honor Code and all related processes in the Student Handbook at http://studentaffairs.cofc.edu/honor-system/studenthandbook/index.php
• Student Email: Students are required to have a College of Charleston email account and to check it at least once per day. All notices regarding the course will be sent to the College of Charleston account.

• Faculty Email: The professor uses KeenanK@cofc.edu and will check it at least once per day during the week. Immediate responses via email should not be expected, but can generally be expected within a 24-hour period.

• Cell phones and pagers may be left on, but they must be turned to silent mode.

• Texting in class while lecture is in progress or while people are participating is rude. It also hinders your learning. Please do not do it.

• Chatting online, or checking facebook while lecture is in progress or while people are participating is rude. It also hinders your learning. Please do not do it.

• Special needs or concerns: Any student eligible for and needing accommodations because of a disability is requested to speak with the professor during the first two weeks of class or as soon as the student has been approved for services so that reasonable accommodations can be arranged.

• Mutual respect for differing questions and ideas: The College is a place for open inquiry and exchange of ideas. All members of the College should treat all other members of the College and members of society with mutual respect and appreciation.
