This course will introduce you to thinking about the idea of politics and political activity conceptually, analytically and historically. This course focuses on political philosophy: a method of thinking about politics that centers on normative questions (e.g. how should we live together?). We will explore the meaning of some basic theoretical concepts related to politics and we will trace how those concepts have been understood in other contexts. We will be reading a variety of political philosophers, ancient, modern and contemporary. The semester is divided in five units. These units help separate the semester into a series of questions and issues. Each class notes the reading, discussion questions to help guide your class preparation and any submissions required for that day. Additionally, we will also read a selection of stories from Octavia Butler’s collection of short fiction Bloodchild. We will use these stories as settings within which theoretical ideas come to life. At the end of the semester you will have a variety of answers to some of the following questions: What is justice? Is freedom desirable? What are the origins of the State? What makes an ideal ruler? Which form of government is best? What makes a good citizen? How can we change the world?

Course Objectives:

This course focuses on the explication, analysis and comparison of political philosophy texts. We read works from figures ancient, modern and contemporary. Students will acquire skills in explication: the explanation of what a text is saying; analysis: the interpretation of what a text means, both in its own context and for us; and comparison: the ways in which arguments about equality or freedom (for example) relate to one another. In class discussion, papers and exams students will learn to examine, interpret and relate texts and arguments.

Learning Outcomes:

Upon successful completion of this course students will be able to:

- demonstrate knowledge of key thinkers and concepts over time (exams and papers)
- compare thinkers on similar concepts (papers and exam essays)
- use concepts to analyze new situations (short story responses, papers, exam essays)
- evaluate interpretations of concepts (papers and exam essays)
- explain the nature and value of normative thinking (papers and exam essays)

Required Books:

- Plato (edited by Reeve) Republic
- Andrew Bailey and others, Eds. Broadview Anthology of Social and Political Thought, Essential Readings (SPT)
- Octavia Butler Bloodchild (Second edition)
Assignments:

- Papers (4) 32%
- Final exam: 15%
- Short story responses (5) 15%
- Quizzes (4) 20%
- Participation (including reflections) 10%
- Lecture/event responses 8%

All work for this class will be submitted on OAKS. More information about exams, papers, quizzes and the short story responses is at the end of the syllabus. Attendance is not required, but participation is important! If you get sick, please contact me.

Grading scale:

- A (93-100)
- A- (90-92)
- B+ (87-89)
- B (84-86)
- B- (80-83)
- C+ (77-79)
- C (74-76)
- C- (70-73)
- D+ (67-69)
- D (64-66)
- D- (60-63)

Submit: Butler, “Book of Martha” short story response due on OAKS by 11am

Final Exam: Friday, December 10, 8AM

Short story responses:
You will write responses to each of the five short stories that we read from Octavia Butler’s collection Bloodchild. Check the syllabus for those due dates. The responses are due in the OAKS dropbox before class on the day the story is being discussed. 2 points (out of 10) are automatically deducted for late short story responses. Responses MUST be submitted via the dropbox. I will accept no submissions via email or in hardcopy.

Responses should focus on a theme from our class discussions and other readings and explain (with examples) how the story connects to that theme.

Response papers will be at least one page, double spaced (and should not be more than two pages, double-spaced). You should give a focused and detailed, but brief, explanation of the theme you are addressing. Do not summarize the story. I would suggest reading the story and then taking notes on what captured your imagination. Then look back over the class notes for the preceding classes and see where there might be connections. Be sure that your responses show an engagement with the story and a use of details to explain your interest in the story.

Class reflection:

Each class will have a reflection question posed at the beginning of class. Each student must have a note taking system that can also be used for class reflection prompts. The reflection questions will allow you to make connections between your own perspectives and the concerns of the authors we read. You will not turn in your reflection. However, twice during the semester you will turn in a larger participation reflection that will ask you to look back on these prompts.

Quizzes:

After each unit there will be a quiz covering the main terms and ideas that we discuss in each unit. Those terms will be highlighted in the lectures (and on powerpoint). These quizzes will be primarily short answer.

Papers:

There are four short (3-5 pages) papers for this class. I will hand out prompts for these papers one week prior to the due date and the papers are due on OAKS. No matter the paper assignment be sure to:

1) Explain the argument of your chosen text
2) Present an argument about that text based upon your own interpretation
3) Defend your argument using evidence from the text

You must use quotations from the texts in question in order to provide evidence for both your explication and your analysis. You will be graded on the clarity of your analysis (this is more important than whether I agree with your particular argument).

Each paper should include the paper worksheet (filled out!) found on OAKS. Additionally papers must be properly cited. All citations should be made in accordance with the guidelines set out in the Political Science Department’s referencing guide (available online at Political Science Department webpage: http://polisci.cofc.edu/documents/12policitationguide.pdf).

Any failure to cite materials used for papers in this class is considered plagiarism. Plagiarism is pretending as if the words and ideas of another are in fact yours. This includes a failure to use quotations, a failure to indicate when you are paraphrasing and the failure to give credit to the author whose ideas you are using. Plagiarism is a violation of the Honor Code and will be treated as such.

1) All papers will be typed and double-spaced with page numbers.
2) Attach the paper worksheet to all papers (worksheet on OAKS under assignments in Content tab)
3) All citations will be in accordance with the departmental referencing guide.
   http://polisci.cofc.edu/documents/12policitationguide.pdf
4) Extensions may be approved 24 hours before the paper is due
5) Students will retain a copy of the paper, either on your computer or in hard copy
6) Plagiarism will be prosecuted by the honor board and students who plagiarize will fail this class.

Further information about the Honor Code and Academic Integrity can be found at:

Additional policies:

OAKS:

OAKS, including Gradebook, will be used for this course throughout the semester to provide the syllabus and class materials and grades for each assignment, which will be regularly posted.

Accommodations: The College will make reasonable accommodations for persons with documented disabilities. Students should apply for services at the Center for Disability Services/SNAP located on the first floor of the Lightsey Center, Suite 104. Students approved for accommodations are responsible for notifying me as soon as possible and for contacting me one week before accommodation is needed.

Food and Housing Resources

Many CofC students report experiencing food and housing insecurity. If you are facing challenges in securing food (such as not being able to afford groceries or get sufficient food to eat every day) and housing (such as lacking a safe and stable place to live), please contact the Dean of Students for support (http://studentaffairs.cofc.edu/about/salt.php). Also, you can go to http://studentaffairs.cofc.edu/student-food-housing-insecurity/index.php to learn about food and housing assistance that is available to you. In addition, there are several resources on and off campus to help. You can visit the Cougar Pantry in the Stern Center (2nd floor), a student-run food pantry that provides dry-goods and hygiene products at no charge to any student in need.

Weather/Illness: In the event of class being cancelled on account of the weather or a rising number of people in isolation, we will pivot online. For a weather event that requires evacuation I expect you to use OAKS and to have your books available. Every effort will be made to have discussions online during a weather event.
